LIVING THE GREY SHIRT

Justice Malcolm Holdip

INTERVIEWER: STEFAN ROACH

Justice Malcolm Holdip is a High Court Judge and a Fatima Alumnus from September 1966 to June 1973. During his tenure at Fatima, he held the premier position of Head Boy at the School. He has served as a judge in the family court on more than one occasion.

He has also held many prominent legal positions in the Caribbean Region where he served as Director of Public Prosecutions in the Federation of St. Kitts and Nevis from 1991 to 1994 and he was appointed Director of Public Prosecutions in Grenada 1997-1999. He held the position of General Counsel of the National Bank Group of Companies in the Federation of St. Kitts and Nevis. This group comprises one of the largest indigenous commercial banks in the OECS, the National Trust Company and the National Insurance Company. He was a member of the Legal team of John Benjamin and Company in Anguilla and also held the prestigious position of President of the Bar Association.

Q: Sum up your years in Fatima in one phrase?
A: Seven memorable years of camaraderie and friendships (now lifelong)

Q: How did Fatima influence your choice of career?
A: When I was at school I wanted to be a teacher and lawyer and when I left, I taught for 3 years at St. Joseph College, Richmond Street, St. Joseph. Clive Pantin was instrumental in getting me placed there fresh from Form 6. While there, I enrolled in UWI part-time to do a first degree in Arts and General Studies. Two years into my degree, I got a call to say that the law faculty had a space in Cave Hill.

Q: What separates a Fatima student from the rest in the corporate world?
A: I firmly believe the background, training, education and moral values which he may have inculcated and fostered at the school (which I call an established institution) would generally go a long way in ensuring that he has the proper character and formation to hold his position in society.

Q: I notice that despite your busy schedule, you always make time for your alma mater. What keeps you here?
A: Well basically, persons who attend schools like Harvard and other like schools take pride in their associations even when they live in territories outside of those schools. Consequently, in terms of the life as a Trini, this is my flagship school, which has prepared and nurtured me perfectly for my current life. As I got older, and I reminisce about my times at Fatima with friends, some have mentioned how much they have listened to what I said and apparently I have had a positive influence on their lives especially during my time as Head Boy.

I always look out for my fellow students (past and present) in life and I carry an inherent and unshakeable pride for Fatima College. Ha Ha - It is a constant source of mirth in my household, that every time I pass in front of the school I pose the question to my wife “Do you remember what that building represents?” I continue to be involved in our fundraisers especially the cook-out where my wife and I produce a dish, the all-inclusive and the May Fair. As Fatima alumni, many of us have involved our spouses and it can be aptly termed “a family-inclusive”.

Q: What are the most rewarding aspects of your present job?
A: I like to see myself as an officer of justice and therefore I feel a sense of accomplishment on a societal level. Personally, I am given an opportunity to develop myself in terms of my skills, my legal acumen and the opportunity to apply the law. I worked in the Family court for three years and I learned a lot about family life, property law and issues dealing with children, this was a very intense and somewhat emotional period as well. I have now returned to the Criminal Division, which could be very challenging at times especially given that there are a number of systems and processes which remain outstanding in order to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of the existing system.

I am also the Chairman of the Drug Treatment Court Steering Committee which is a relatively new initiative and this Committee works towards setting policy guidelines as they relate to intervention for persons whose criminal activity is driven by drug addiction. This continues to be a most satisfying and rewarding programme. I work closely with other stakeholders such as the Magistracy, the Probation Office, Prison Authority and National Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention Programme. I also have
At this stage of development, I would say yes. The system hinged about being judged by one’s peers within your community, village, the man in the street, but based on the complexity of certain trials, one has to ask whether the man in the street is truly playing that intended role. For example, the man in the street, who may be encountering DNA for the first time, and is instructed by the presiding Judge that he should not research it on the Internet. The same goes for fraud matters…some people don’t understand the intricacy of an Accounting system. Complicated issues! Yes, the jury would understand some of the information presented, but are they judging on the standard prescribed or by their own standard? Additionally, now there is a major extent of jury tampering and intimidation.

Why is T&T failing in the war on crime?
So many reasons and so very complex! Societal reasons…mal adjustments. You can’t expect a judicial system to function in a mal-adjusted society. Our social systems are crumbling around us. There are so many issues with which we are bombarded which were not even considerations previously. The world has shrunked to a global village where the internet is both a boon and a bane and therefore we are assailed with the gruesome details of very novel criminal activity which we imbibe and implant into our society. Violent crime over the past 12 years has been totally unprecedented, the violence in schools…bullying, the road rage and the anger amongst so many young people in society. All these things are part of the social culture, in addition to problems in health care and education. The impact of churches and traditional teachers in the past is no longer present.

What is the make of your family?
ONE wife (with a big laugh) who would like me to say that she is pure and undiluted Grenadian, 3 children. Jarryd 28, Arielle 27 and a langniappe, Yannick 16.

Do you ever fear for your safety and the safety of your family because of your occupation?
Truthfully, NO, but since the ‘bold-faced’ murder of Dana Seetahal, one recognizes that the Criminal Justice landscape has changed drastically and so the safety of judges, magistrates, prosecutors, DPP staff is of number one priority and this undoubtedly relates to me…and with particular reference to my adjudication in the most high profile matter in the country now (Vindra Naipaul murder trial).

A judge is expected to conduct himself with a high level of reticence and integrity at all given times, a person of rectitude, levelness, and impartiality with a measure of independent thought. Correct? Is this a challenge to your social life?
Yes, he/she is expected to do that but I never let it be a deterrent to my personal social life as my own moral compass with or without a judgeship precludes me from indulging in certain types of behavior. Remember I am a Fatima Old Boy. I watch my language, personal behavior and I try to avoid situations that may compromise my position as a judge. You would never find me in a political meeting. I might drive past slowly, but I would never stop (with a chuckle). I choose my places of socialization carefully. Some judges may avoid certain cocktail functions in order to avoid meeting politicians.

Do you run away when your liming partners start with the political talk?
No, I just sit down and listen and smile depending on where I am. Sometimes it is actually useful to sit and listen, because I may be getting information I wouldn’t get anywhere else.

What are your career and life aspirations?
I’m staring down the barrels of retirement in 5 years. The Chief has placed confidence in me to deal with the Drug Treatment Court. My aspiration is that when I retire to have 8 – 10 courts for drug treatment for adults and juveniles. I hope that judges and magistrates would recognize the value of this in turning around the role of the courts to be a more restorative rather than a punitive one.

Is the job market for lawyers becoming saturated?
Given the numbers it may very well be, however I have always advocated that doing law doesn’t restrict you to being a practising lawyer within the courtroom. Many are qualified lawyers, but are policemen, etc. It is a profession that gives you the broadest scope of human life. It is the only profession that touches... the human personality before you are born and after you die.

Q Many prominent lawyers have emerged from Fatima. How do you identify an alumnus in the Courtroom?
A Actually, most of them, I know through their association with FOBA. I would not mention names given that they may appear before me from time to time.

Q What do you do for leisure?
A My wife and I are heavily into calypso and calypso research as well as historical and cultural related activities. I have been a Calypso judge at the National level, the chairperson of the Adjudication Committee of TUCO (Trinbago Unified Calypsonians Organisation) for the past 5 years. I was and still am an avid West Indian cricket supporter. I followed my West Indian cricketers on TV, radio and would fly to different islands to watch cricket...then the decline started. I had flurrying moments of support, for example, the success of Brian Lara. I am a firm believer in West Indies cricket and West Indies culture. They are the only things that are keeping the region together. When the West Indies team wins, it is the entire region celebrating.

I also love steelband, mas and calypso. Of course I celebrate the achievements of...Etienne ace trumpeter...Shaw (celebrated composer) and the current secondary schools Soca monarch...Camejo.

Q What’s next on your bucket list?
A Ha ha...It always surrounds travel. My number one is to lose some weight and to allow my health to improve and have less excess pounds to tote around. Egypt is high on the list of places to visit and possibly South Africa. I want to see the pyramids. I want to visit Zambia to see the Victoria Falls and the Zambezi River.

Q Advise a Form 6 student interested in pursuing a career in law.
A I have already spoken to Form 3s and Form 6s this year. I always tell them that they have to like reading. They have to read and understand society, economics, politics, history of your island and your region. You must be an overall well-read person and it must be a continuous process. A lawyer must be in touch with his/her social landscape. There are class differences showing up in some lawyers coming out now which are affecting their competence. They must understand that there are two societies coexisting side by side here, Trinidad and Tobago and they need to be au courant with both. I would like to thank you for the opportunity to be part of this process, it is heart-warming and nostalgic in parts.

held in in collaboration with Holy Name Convent Alumni Association and St. Francois Girls College Alumnae, on board the Harbour Master on Wednesday 11th February.
Appointed on the basis of prior achievement and exceptional promise, the successful candidates were chosen from a group of over 3,100 applicants. The great variety of backgrounds, fields of study, and accomplishments of Guggenheim Fellows is one of the most unique characteristics of the Fellowship program. In all, 51 disciplines, 63 different academic institutions, 23 states and the District of Columbia, and 2 Canadian provinces are represented by this year’s Fellows, who range in age from twenty-nine to eighty-three.

Since its establishment in 1925, the Foundation has granted over $325 million in Fellowships to almost 18,000 individuals, among whom are scores of Nobel laureates and poets laureate, as well as winners of the Pulitzer Prize, Fields Medal, and other important, internationally recognized honors.

A release from the Foundation has announced that one of this year’s Music Composition recipients is Trinidadian and Fatima alum Etienne Charles, who was featured in Issue #13 of the FOBA Newsletter ‘Beyond the Grey Shirt’.

www.foba.fatima.edu.tt/features/alumni/living-the-grey-shirt-etienne-charles

“I am deeply grateful, humbled and honored to be selected as a 2015 Guggenheim Fellow. It is inspiring to be a new member of this elite group of artists and scholars,” states Charles. “This fellowship will enable me to further my research and create a large compositional work depicting the original rituals and traditional characters of Carnival in T&T.”

Further details on this prestigious honour can be viewed at www.etiennecharles.com

In August 2015, Charles will premiere the San Jose Suite, a new work made possible with support from Chamber Music America’s 2014 New Jazz Works grant funded through the generosity of the Doris Duke Charitable Foundation. This fall will see the release of his album Creole Christmas, a cross-collaboration highlighting traditional Caribbean holiday folk music, featuring musicians from the United States, Venezuela, Macedonia, and T&T. On November 29, Charles will present music from Creole Christmas at a concert at Queen’s Hall, PoS.

Tribute to Retired Teacher

Ray Holman, a Pan Legend by Glen Roach

Ray Holman entered Fatima in 1968 and retired in 1998 with 30 yrs service.

Teaching in Fatima College afforded me the opportunity to interface with two of our celebrated National icons, Brian Lara and Ray Holman. I saw Brian grow to become my favourite batsman of all time. As for Ray, not only was he my colleague but we worked in the same department, shared Form Six Spanish and we sat side by side for most of my career. What an honour to be in the company of a musical genius, a recipient of a National Award!

Ray was one of several middle-class college boys who lurked around the panyard at a time when the panman was considered an “outcast”. Ellie Mannette invited him into Invaders Panyard and his musical career simply took off. He was soon organizing a steelband concert in QRC. At age 16, he was arranging for Invaders, even composing his own tune Ray’s Saga for the band. This was a precursor of things to come.

Ray moved on to Starlift where his talent continued to unfold. His arrangement of Penny Lane is a masterpiece. Jane was just another tune in Sparrow’s repertoire until Starlift played it for Panorama. Solo Haromonites won that year but Jane remained one of my favourites. Ray did however emerge triumphant with The Bull and Queen of the Bands. He created his own tune with Socking It With Steel, a trend which he pursued incurring the wrath of panmen and calypsonians. Ray lived to see his idea of playing his own tune for Panorama now become the norm.

It was in 1972 that Ray composed Pan on the Move for Panorama. This led to Pan on the Run the following year. Ray suffered the same fate as Shorty when he created Soca. He became a very unpopular individual. He and Starlift soon parted ways and Ray went on to arrange for several bands like Huggins Pandemoniun, Carib Tokyo, Exodus, Valley Harps and Skiffle Bunch. Unfortunately, Ray did not win another Panorama. Ironically, he arranged the music for two of Chucky’s winning renditions for Calypso Monarch 2014 and 2015.

As a Spanish teacher, Ray was brilliant, feared and respected by his pupils. I would always remember my first Form Six Spanish class. As I entered the class and introduced myself, the students erupted in uncontrollable joy. I later learnt the source of their jubilation. I was replacing Ray. This class included Justice Malcolm Holdip and Father Derek Anton. Justice Holdip admitted that in hindsight Ray exerted a tremendous influence in his life. He was thorough and demanding and laid a solid foundation, which has helped him in his career.

Ray certainly helped me in my career also. He was very strict with me when I joined the profession and at one time I was even afraid of him but I learnt so much from him. He showed me very simple and creative ways of teaching. É and Í simply meant I did something. It is from Ray that I learnt of the go, go verbs – tengo, salgo, vengo, digo etc.

Ray loved to deliver lectures. I will never forget the day he lectured me about financial planning and investment. This was at the end of my first year of teaching. There I was, a young teacher, working for a fantastic salary of $669.00 and enjoying life to the fullest. Ray cornered me one day and asked me some searching questions: “What did you achieve after one year of teaching? What did you buy? How much money did you save? Did you invest any money?”

To all these questions, I answered in the negative. This lecture had a tremendous impact on my life.

Ray had a command of the English language and he would make any topic sound interesting. I’ll never forget the day that he spent discussing the difference between a shirt and a jersey or between very and much. It was fun working with Ray Holman, a pan legend!

TRACK TEAM PENN RELAYS 2015
Recap by Coach Nigel Cooper (Dean of Form 3).

Just returned from 5th trip to Penn Relays. I thank God for helping and guiding us all the way along this journey. He has gifted Fatima College with seven amazing young men, all of whom have been well nurtured by their parents. Athletics captain Xavier Mulugata (form V), Micaiah Joseph, Alexei Nicholas, Bevon Gordon, Kadeem Campbell (all form VI), Zachary Gonsalves, Jordan Moses (form V) all did a tremendous job of flying the Fatima and Trinbago flags very, very high. The way they carried themselves, greeted people and performed on the track had many people wondering where they were from. Nitendo Vinces.

FINAL RESULTS:
Fatima's 4x100m Team - 43.82 seconds
(Micaiah Joseph, Xavier Mulugata, Bevon Gordon, Alexei Nicholas)
2nd in their heat; 32nd out of 257 high schools in their division (top 12%); 54th out of all 579 high schools (top 9%).
2nd best placing; 3rd best time since our first Penn Relays appearance in 2011

Fatima's 4x400m Team - 3 minutes 29.84 seconds
(Kadeem Campbell, Alexei Nicholas, Micaiah Joseph, Xavier Mulugata)
9th in their heat; 159th out of 552 schools (top 29%)
2nd best time Fatima has achieved at Penn.

Fatima Athletes from Penn Relays Team performed well at Hampton International Track and Field Games Heats. Kadeem Campbell, Micaiah Joseph, and Xavier Mulugata all qualified for the finals of the Hampton Games to be held later this month. Kadeem who has recently returned from injury, continued his fine form by clocking 50.72 to win heat #3 of the Under-18 400m. He was just ahead of fellow sixth former Micaiah Joseph who finished in 50.97 seconds. Captain Mulugata remains consistent with an 11.06 seconds clocking in the Under-20 100m. Other good performances came from Bevon Gordon, Alexei Nicholas, and Andrii Campbell.

CRICKET

An innings saving knock from Jean-Paul Rocke and brilliant death bowling led Fatima to the Powergen Secondary Schools Intercol Knockout T20 title against Naparima at the National Cricket Centre, Couva, on Friday 9th May 2015.

Rocke was named man-of-the-match for his knock and getting the prized wicket of Naps national youth player Clevon Kalawan for duck.
